Prior to his current assignment, he served as a political chief at the U.S. Embassy in Budapest, Hungary, 1984-1987; a political officer at the U.S. Embassy in Cairo, Egypt, 1981-1983; special assistant to Secretaries of State Vance, Muskie and Haig, 1979-1981; special assistant political/counselor officer at the U.S. Embassy in Pretoria, South Africa, 1976-1979; and political/economic officer at the U.S. Embassy in Lisbon, Portugal, 1973-1975.

Thrown object may cost bridge fisherman's sight

BY D.C. HARVILL

Judging from what happened to a man fishing on the Bay St. Louis Bridge Tuesday night, some people have sick senses of what constitutes entertainment.

Lonnie Wheat of Bay St. Louis may lose the sight in his right eye because someone in a passing car hit him with an unidentified object while he was fishing from the bridge about 10:45 p.m.

"I hadn't been out there 15 minutes when this car passed. I looked around when it was going by and something hit me in the eye," Wheat said.

The blow caused a gash over his eye, cut his nose, ruptured blood vessels behind his eye and knocked him into the highway.

"It felt like I had been shot. I thought half my head was gone. The doctor told me I may lose my eye yet. I have to sleep at a 45-degree angle to keep pressure off the blood vessels," he said.

Another fisherman helped Wheat back to his own car and a friend drove him to the Veterans Administration Hospital emergency room.

"All I can remember about the car is that it was blue. After it happened another guy told me someone in a blue car had hit him in the back of the leg with an egg. It wasn't an egg they hit me with though," he said.

One of Wheat's neighbors went to where the incident occurred and was unable to find the object that hit him. A lens knocked from his glasses also was not found.

Wheat now has to apply drops to his eye several times a day and has to report to an Ear, Nose and Throat Specialist daily.

Last summer, the Bay St. Louis Police Department received several reports of people throwing things at fishermen on the bridge, but this is the first such report this year, according to Deputy Chief Mark Ohman.

"Last summer we had one report of someone throwing a six-pack," Ohman said.

Ohman suggests such cases be reported to Bay Police if they occur on the Bay St. Louis side of the bridge or, if on the other end, to the Harrison County Sheriff's Department.

Wheat said he liked to go fishing on the bridge at night because he has a heart condition and, on doctor's orders, must stay out of the sun. Now he says he will not return to the bridge.

"I just hope whoever it was will feel bad when they read this and think about what they are doing before doing it again," Wheat said.

Bay City Council runoff election will be Tuesday

BY D.C. HARVILL

Bay St. Louis voters in Districts Three and Four will go to the polls Tuesday to select the person who will represent them on the city council for the next four years.

In the District Three race, incumbent Charles E. Johnson will face Thomas "Tom" Farve.

In the May 2 first primary, Farve received 275 votes to Johnson's 161, out of the 586 that were cast.

A third candidate, Phillip Williams, ran a close third with 150 votes.

Farve is a pesticide technician at Stennis Space Center. Johnson, seeking his second term at council, is an employee of G.E. Plastic (Borg-Warner).

Incumbent John Wilkerson faces Burt Taylor in the District Four runoff competition.

In the first primary Taylor took 233 votes out of 788 to Wilkerson's 377. Candidate Tom Williams garnered 178 votes.

Bay St. Louis Election Commissioner Charles Gottschalk said he does not expect a large turnout Tuesday.

"You can't tell, but usually in a runoff the turnout is down.

More people are interested in the mayor's race. People should turn out for a runoff but they don't," Gottschalk said.

The District Three race seems to be the more interesting of the two, according to Gottschalk.

"The word around City Hall is it will be a tight race. It all depends on how many people they can get out," he said.

Though a small turnout is expected, the election commission will provide enough ballots for a large showing, Gottschalk said.

"We will monitor the polls all day Tuesday and if more ballots are needed we will have them available. I imagine we will hit about 400 in District Three and 500 to 550 in District Four.

The other three incumbents, Charles Scianna in District One, James C. Thriffley III in District Two and James (Jimmy) Rutherford, At-Large, all reclaimed their seats in the first primary.

Scianna and Rutherford were elected to the council in January to replace Lisa Cowan and Wilmer Seymour after they were elected to the County Board of Supervisors. Thriffley enters his fourth term as councilman.

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Bay Little Theatre revival results in first production

BY DENA BISNETTE

Last winter, supporters of a nearly defunct Bay St. Louis Little Theatre decided to try to revive the group and repair its playhouse. On May 18, 19 and 20, the curtain will rise on the group's first show since the revival effort began.

Those who gathered under a leaking roof in a damp, cold Boardman Avenue Playhouse Nov. 30, partially in response to rumors that the building might be destroyed to make room for a park, voted to launch a membership drive.

When enough people indicated an interest, that drive expanded into a repair and clean-up effort. The playhouse, built in 1946 of two temporary military buildings, has undergone roof repair and some interior work, said Publicity Chairman Larry Heller.

Heller said one of the theatre group's older members, John Holmes, and a newcomer, Wayne Hahn, did most of the work on the building.

Lynn Montgomery has used a distinctive lantern on the front of the building to design a new logo for the group, which is being used on the flier for the play, "The Odd Couple: the Female Version."

Once a board was elected and committees had been established, Heller said, a play for the first production had to be selected.

Ed Scanlan and Ed Craig, both veterans of the group who have directed and acted in a number of productions, served as a reading committee.

"We had all decided it had to be something known, but not something that had already been done," Heller explained.

"The Odd Couple," a Simon comedy about a sloppy, divorced sportswriter and a compulsively neat friend he allows to live with him, was last presented by BSLT about five years ago.

The female version of the play, in which the sexes of all the characters have been switched, was also written by Simon. It has never been presented here.

Heller said Scanlan issued an open casting call in order to attract as many new people as possible for the cast and the crew. A mixed response resulted.

Heller, who plays the role of Manolo, said he and Norma Mars, who is playing Olive in one of the leading roles, have not been on stage in more than 20 years.

Mary Ellen Griffin, cast as the other lead, Florence, has played small parts before but this is her first big role, he added.

Sally Rodrigue, who has appeared in BSLT, Waveland Players and Diamondhead Dinner Theatre productions, is a veteran character actor who will appear as Mickey. Missy Marshall and Elizabeth Hart, playing Sylvie and Renee, have also been on stage before.

Renee Weaver and Larry Timmerman, playing Vera and
Jesus, are both newcomers.

The crew is also a mixture of newcomers and veterans, with John Holmes, lighting; Noel
Gillian and Beth Benvenuti, props; Hank Rodrigue, set construction; Lyla Hay Owen and Heller, publicity; Carol Young,

Scalan, set design; Linda Berg-lund, make-up; Lana Noonan, house; and Ed Ling, Sally Rodrigue, Owen and Toni Handhoe, clean-up crew.

Heller said one problem that any theatre group has in attracting members is that people believe they have to be willing to go on stage.

"You don't have to act. There is so much more to be done that acting is just a small part of it," he said. Examples of non-acting help he gave included Jake Jacobs, who worked on the seats in the building, and Pat Schott, who simply donated some much-needed paint. Heller said local merchants even got into the act by donating toward the cost of printing fliers.

Curtain time for all performances of "The Odd Couple: the Female Version" is 8 p.m. Tickets are $5 at the door.

People who did not get a chance to be involved in the first production may want to attend try-outs at 7 p.m. tonight at the playhouse for a June 22-24 production, "This Must Be the Place."

Ed Craig, who will direct the farce, said five females ages 20 to 60 and four males ages 25 to 50 are needed. The playhouse is located north of US-90 off

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Tuesday is a very important day for Bay St. Louis residents of District Three and Four as they will select a council member for the next four years.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. for the runoff. Voting for District Three will be at the Bay St. Louis Fire Station and for District Four at Christ Episcopal's Virginia Hall.

The only Bay St. Louis electors to vote on Tuesday are those who are registered in Districts Three and Four.

I hope every qualified elector in those two districts will go to the polls and vote on Tuesday, as every vote does count.

I have been watching the oleanders which are blooming in the median of Highway 90.

These flowering shrubs really take a lot of abuse from the elements and despite their beauty, can be very dangerous to a person's health.

Webster's Dictionary says oleanders are, 'a poisonous evergreen shrub (Nerium oleander) of the dogbane family with fragrant white to red flowers'.

One thing is for sure, youngsters should be kept from areas where oleanders grow, because the leaves as well as the seeds can be poisonous.

Oleanders are very hardy plants, and extreme cold temperatures appear to be about the only thing in nature to kill them.

The flowers on oleanders are very nice, and they do bloom during a period of the year when few other shrubs and flowers are in bloom.

We encourage everyone to admire their beauty, but stay clear of the shrubs.

Many residents of the area enjoy fishing from the highway bridge, some in the day and others at night.

I have fished from the bridge at times over the years.

Never once did I feel danger—other than making sure not to step from the walk in front of a moving vehicle.

A few nights ago, Lonnie Wheat of Bay St. Louis was fishing from the bridge, and as a vehicle passed someone threw an object, striking him in the eye.

The vehicle appeared to have been full of teenagers and Wheat reports he may possibly lose sight in the eye.

Wheat can only fish when it is cool, so he fishes at night and as you know, the bridge has a good light system.

I feel we have come to a very sad time when our residents have to be concerned about someone throwing objects at them while trying to enjoy themselves fishing.

I am hoping that Wheat does not lose sight in his eye and, for sure, I am not wishing any good things to happen to the culprit who threw the object.

FROM THE SENATE

By U.S. Senator Trent Lott

'The Golden Years'

We are so privileged to be in a country where we can pursue our dreams and strive to be successful in a working environment made up of competition and free enterprise. Each of us has the opportunity to use our time and talents, to branch out and better ourselves personally and professionally. Why at age 65 should this freedom of opportunity be taken away or hindered because of set laws or limitations?

Presently here is a set earnings requirement for people age 65-70. If your yearly income exceeds $8,160, you automatically receive a cut in the social security benefits you are already entitled to receive at that age. In other words, senior citizens that have the desire and opportunity to remain in the workforce and contribute their time and talents, are practically forced out of their jobs and into their homes. How can this type of treatment of our elderly be justified?

These people are the salt of the earth, pillars of our community. They have contributed years of service and experience to their families and to our society. Why should these people be penalized for their outstanding commitment to achievement?

I have recently joined Minority Leader Robert Dole and Senator Bill Armstrong of Colorado in co-sponsoring legislation to prevent this unne-sary taxation of our elderly.

This particular bill, S. 1777, would phase out the social security retirement earnings limitation that has placed such a burden on people age 65-70. Therefore, these people who have worked so hard for the past 50 years, can continue to do so, if we let them!

Last month a similar amendment was added to the minimum wage bill that was debated by the Senate. I voted for this particular amendment, not only because it increased the earnings limitation by $1,000 dollars, but because it also called for a repeal of all limitations.

This legislation can only make things better. More senior citizens can remain in the workforce, and continue to be productive and successful, if they choose. They can also act as a vital role model to each of us, as leaders and teachers of our communities throughout Mississippi and the entire nation.

They have earned our respect over the years and they deserve it. They have taught us the meaning of hard work and dedication to better ourselves and our futures.

It should make us all think twice and challenge our own commitment to our jobs, our families and our future. Remember, one day you may be given the same alternative.

"The doctor just told me he gave you permission to come home three days ago!"

Dole picks Lott for arms group

U.S. Senator Trent Lott has been named to the Senate Arms Control Observer Group by Republican Leader Robert Dole. The observer group, created on Jan. 3, 1985, is a bipartisan body of nine senators from each party, as well as the majority and minority leaders as ex-officio members.

"The purpose of the Senate Arms Control Observer Group is to complement the activities of the Foreign Relations Committee and Armed Services Committee in their duties by providing a more regular and systematic involvement of the full Senate in arms control negotiations," Dole said.

"Lott was chosen because of his keen interest in and knowledge of defense and arms control issues. He has impressed senators on both sides of the aisle with his energy, dedication and eloquence. No doubt about it, he is already making a difference in this place and he'll do the same in Geneva and Vienna," Dole added.

Billions available for home repair grants and subsidized loans

Most homeowners are unaware that regardless of their income there are federal, state and local programs that will help them repair and remodel their homes.

Government at all levels recognizes that neighborhoods are the basis of life in our country. When a neighborhood deteriorates, many things happen both physically and socially. When the homes look shabby, a neighborhood seems more attractive to crime and criminals. An area in decline is like a spreading cancer.

As homes become shabby looking and in need of maintenance, the residents lose their desire to keep up the neighborhood. Streets become receptacles for trash, schools lower their standards and very quickly the selling price of homes in the area drops sharply. This accelerates the cycle of degeneration.

In order to keep and maintain the nation's housing and neighborhoods, government at all levels have programs to give homeowners money (that does not have to be repaid) for repairs or to lend them money at below market levels or at no interest.

In many areas utility companies will either do energy conservation work free or at low cost and in other places will lend homeowners money at no interest to pay the contractor of their choice for the necessary work. In addition there are tax incentives to promote efficient energy use.

These programs are not restricted to low-income people, slum areas or urban neighborhoods. Owners of single or multi-family dwellings are eligible for some programs regardless of income. Most of the loans offer long terms and low payments.

Some of the other home improvements covered under these programs are: attic and wall insulation, new windows, outerwall siding, security doors and locks, window guards, sidewalks and masonry work, of the agenda."

Members of the Arms Control Observer Group are expected to make regular visits to Vienna, Austria and Geneva, Switzerland, to two sites of current arms control negotiations.

Other Republicans named to the group include Senators Ted Stevens, Alaska; Richard Lugar, Indiana; John Warner, Virginia; Don Nickles, Oklahoma; Warren Rudman, New Hampshire; John Chafee, Rhode Island; and Jake Garn, Utah.

Democrats named were Senators Robert Byrd, West Virginia; Claiborne Pell, Rhode Island; Sam Nunn, Georgia; Ted Kennedy, Massachusetts; Daniel Moynihan, New York; Albert Gore, Tennessee; Carl Levin, Michigan; Paul Sarbanes, Maryland; and Dale Bumpers, Arkansas.

"Arms control negotiations are often detailed and delicate," Lott said after being chosen. "We must ensure that U.S. interests are always at the top bathrooms and kitchens, electrical and plumbing work, new roofs, gutters or downspouts.

Consumer Education Research Center, a national non-profit consumer group, has just published Consumers Guide to Home Repair Grants and Subsidized Loans, a 248-page book which lists over 7,000 sources of loan and grant programs offered by all levels of government in addition to utility companies and others, typical programs offered and eligibility requirements.

Form letters for inquiries to these loan and grant sources are included as well as detailed instructions on determining your debt-to-income ratio for eligibility. The book can be obtained for $10 plus $2 shipping and handling from CERC Grants, 134 Evergreen Place, East Orange, NJ 07018 or by calling 1-800-USA-0121 for credit card order.

Robert L. Berko of CERC, tells us, "Some of these programs have a 1.0 income ceiling and others allow income of as much as $100,000 per year.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Patrol cars need proper equipment too

To the Editor:

I have seen your comments many times in the paper about cars with one headlight, and I agree with them. Cars should have two headlights. Mine does.

About two months ago I was in a car with a friend on Hwy. 603 when we met a car with one headlight.

It was not really dark yet, so I could see the car very well. It was a grey sedan with a blue light on the roof and yellow signs on the doors. It was a Highway Patrol Car.

Many times I have seen local patrol cars with one tail light or no stoplights or turn signals that don't work. I have even seen one once with bald tires.

The local police seem to have improved with better equipment in the last year or so. The point, a police car is just as much of a danger with one headlight as any other car. Laws are for everyone. Someone should check to see if all the lights work before going on patrol.

Reader talks about increased Congressional spending of taxes

To the Editor,

Abe Lincoln once said: "You can fool some of the people some of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time."

Unfortunately, this isn't true today. The American people—you and I—are being fooled again and again 100 percent of the time! It increasingly grows worse, and it costs more and more—costing you and me thousands of dollars each year in taxes none of us can possibly afford. Think about what I'm going to reveal and I'll tell you what you can each do about it.

Because I believe it important to each and everyone of us, American citizens and patriots, I'm presenting here a brief extract from an article printed in a little weekly Maryland newspaper, The Record, by Mr. Perry L. Weed:

What we have before us in the U.S. Congress—a new invincible incumbent with practically an unlimited lifetime tenure—not what this nation's founders envisioned when they created our national legislative branch.

Members of Congress have rigged the rules to insure their reelection. Congress now costs the taxpayers over $2,000,000,000 per year. Since the mid-1960's, spending to support Congress has multiplied almost ten times. Congress now employs almost 12,000 people. The heritage foundation estimates the value of tax-paid Congressional services (staff, mailing privileges, public relations, and travel allowances) used by incumbent Congressmen for reelection purposes at $1,000,000 per year.

Moreover, this $1,000,000-a-year advantage is in addition to other funds raised for reelection. Incumbent members of Congress can raise much more money than challengers because of the power and influence of their incumbency.

As the nation's founders envisioned: Congress was intended to represent, to be an extension of the American citizen, not a permanent, privileged class of professional politicians with self-serving interests.

The increased taxpayer burden of this self-serving boondoggle makes the 5 percent pay raise seem modest by comparison!

Voters are discouraged because their votes seem not to count. Turnout continues to fall. In 1986, only 33.4 percent of eligible voters actually voted. Money is displacing votes!

America is becoming a nation of special interests. Members of Congress pander increasingly to groups who fund their reelections. In 1974, there were 608

Political Action Committees. By the end of 1988, their numbers had swollen to 4,268.

Yet members of Congress spend only 73 hours to conduct the nation's business, including stalling for 30 days then begrudgingly rejecting a 51 percent pay raise, and for the first time in American history denying a new president, during his first three months, a cabinet confirmation.

In the early 1980's, Common Cause, a citizens' lobby, argued in the federal court that excessive use of the franking privilege by members of Congress was unconstitutional. Franking is commonly used in lieu of personal payment of postage for self-promotional newsletters, mass mailings of speeches and articles, and congratulatory letters to constituents on such occasions as births, marriages and graduations.

Congress spends $113,400,000 on its mass mailings in fiscal 1988—40 percent more than had actually been appropriated. Projections for the 1990 election year approach $180,000,000 of your money, Mr. Taxpayer!

What can we do about this outrage to the American voter? For beginners, we can respond as we did on the pay raise issue. We've demonstrated that we, American citizens, can send a clear message to Washington when we decide to put our minds to it.

Here are a few specific things we can undertake to restore the Congress and to re-establish our voice in our representation:

1. Limit Congressional tenure to a total of 12 years.
2. Eliminate PAC money and honoraria and reform campaign spending.
3. Greatly reduce the Congressional budget (in excess of $2 billion) used increasingly by members to campaign for reelection.
4. Enforce, through independent counsel, ethical standards, especially regarding receipt of things of value from special interest groups.
5. Adopt the Madison Amendment, or the principal it embodies, to provide that members of Congress vote on their own pay raises or other self-interest issues, and then run for reelection after they have cast their votes.

As we mark the 200th year of the United States Congress, I urge citizens, through their active involvement in national politics and their support of new, more responsive candidates, to participate in regaining and restoring our United States Congress.

Well, there you have it. Now is the time to make your voices heard. It's your country—and it's your money being wasted!

Sincerely,
Paul D. Gilbert

Do I really need a home computer?

My husband keeps talking about buying a home computer. I have a computer system in my office for writing and I keep having to write about different offices becoming computerized, or computer programs at schools. I'm not sure I want one at home.

I have learned to recognize the typefaces of the more generally used computers; they've come pretty far from the dot matrix style which used to immediately identify something as having been computer-printed.

The more prevalent computers become, however, the more fun they have with people.

I read that the computer virus which caused so much trouble for IBM and IBM-compatible computers originated when a hacker lost control of what he had started.

Okay, hackers can cause trouble. They can do fun things, like put your name and office address on a mailing list for an obscene publication, or big things. I think the big hacker project feared most is the one from the movie where the kid breaks into the Pentagon and almost blows it all.

A computer doesn't need a hacker to help it drive you nuts.

It can do plenty, all by itself. Ask anybody who's been in the middle of something, be it his grocery list or the great American novel, when a power failure started. Better yet, talk to the owner of the machine hit by a power surge.

Both procedures wipe out whatever you're doing and then some. The problem is, they usually do it to people like me, who are working on deadline. The whole thing leaves us so angry we can't remember what we were doing.

I get the biggest kicks out of computers with mailing lists. Somebody buys your name and address from someone you've done business with, although I've never been able to track who the one selling the information is. Sometimes the information looks just like my telephone book entry or my credit card mailouts, and sometimes it doesn't.

First, the computer mangles my name—to something like Deaan Bnisett. Then, it mangles the address of someone I have never heard of—with a name like Janckohowiczki or Katamaui. I get two copies of junk mail, one that comes to me with my name barely recognizable, and one supposed to go to Mr. Alphabet Soup.

Computers sometimes skip a space where they shouldn't, or transpose letters. When I went to University of Southern Mississippi, a computer in the registrar's office did both.

It transposed my first name from Dena to Dean, then went one space off when it checked the blank next to "sex." The computer created a male student named Dean Bisnette who took the same classes I did and made the same grades, but got different junk mail.

Not only did the military want him, but half the fraternities asked him to pledge. If it happened now, I'd accept one of the invitations and create a national scandal just for the sport of it.

Why couldn't the computer have made Dean my title instead of my first name? Now, that could have had possibilities.

The most fun a mailing-list computer has, though, must be when there's a household with more than one last name involved. Take mine, for instance. My husband Joe asked me to keep Bisnette as my last name; he believes I'll be famous or something.

We've been married for more than a year now and most people just address our mail to one or the other, or write out both names. Computers, though, come up with mongrelizations like "Joe Bisnette," or persist in addressing my mail to my mother-in-law. It's a good thing Joe thinks it's funny too.

The best one yet, though, said "Current Resident" on the outside and began, "Dear Mrs. Resident."

If Joe buys a home computer, I want a mailing list so I can play with it.

Forage Assistance closes May 15

Livestock producers whose pastures were damaged by drought conditions in 1988 have until May 15 to apply for USDA's Forage Assistance Program (FAP).

The program provides up to $3,500 per person in cost-share payments to help eligible livestock producers re-seed permanent forage crops on established pastures.

Franklin A. Gennin, county executive director of the Pearl River-Hancock ASCS Office, said, "established pasture" is land, including rangeland, that is in permanent vegetative cover and is used exclusively for grazing livestock.

Authorized by the Disaster Assistance Act of 1989, the FAP cost-share payments cover one-half the re-seeding costs, and includes the cost of seed, fertilizer and other related expenses incurred in re-seeding pasture to a non-annual forage crop.

"The program provides assistance only if the forage crop will not regenerate naturally," said Gennin, "and re-seeding is the most cost-effective method to re-establish the crop."

He said hay land is not eligible and the cost-share funds can not be used simply to improve forage crops damaged by drought.

Eligible livestock producers who believe they may be eligible for FAP payments should apply for assistance before May 15.

Loans

There are even programs for which tenants are eligible and many allow loans or give grants to poor credit risks. One of the authors of this book received a $5,000 N.J. grant plus a $4,000 interest free loan from his utility company. In many areas, people with disabilities can receive grants to pay for needed repairs such as access ramps and widening of doorways.

Since it is important that the work be done properly, the book describes in detail how to pick a reputable contractor, negotiate a contract and insure that work is done properly and for a fair price.

Warner, Thomas works to be featured at tea

Artists Jeanne Kruse Warner and Andrew Thomas will be featured at Serenity's May tea from 4 p.m. until 6 p.m. Sunday. Serenity is located at 126 1/2 Main St., Bay St. Louis.

Music for the afternoon will be provided by "New Day," with Jim Ballard and Kelly Brown performing on synthesizer and flute.

Warner, a native Californian, thinks fondly of the South as "home." Married in 1950 to a New Orleans, La., civil engineer, she quickly adapted to the humid environment of lazy bayou waters, moss-draped oaks, gardens scented with sweet olive and Confederate jasmine and shuttered windows with lacy wrought-iron balconies.

She now resides in Cedar Point, where she enjoys the best of both environments. Warner paints scenes of the Bay of St. Louis and the Mississippi Sound, as well as colorful beach views of sunbathers at play. Often, she journeys to New Orleans to capture the feel of the French Market, to listen to the clomp-clomp of horse-drawn buggies or to watch the paddle Wheeler Natchez going on one of her river cruises.

She also enjoys the bounty of nature and frequently sets up a still-life of brilliantly colored flowers or a basket of berries to paint. She works with oil, acrylic and other media.

Prior to the 1940s, Warner studied with the distinguished California landscape painter, Chiura Obata. During her sojourns in Turkey and Spain, she frequently joined with itinerant artists to capture native scenes.

During the 1960s, she actively displayed her work in Newport News, Va., and Nag's Head, N.C. In 1969 she was a one-year featured artist with the Countryside Gallery in Arlington Heights, Ill.

She has developed a colorful, expressionistic style which has been described by some collectors as Impressionism. Her work is usually spontaneous and captures at the site, but is sometimes drawn from long and colorful memories.

This spring, Warner was interviewed on a New Orleans television program, Bill Elder's Journal. He has become a collector of her work.

In addition to Serenity, she is currently exhibiting at Ship's Gallery in Pass Christian and The Artists' Showroom in New Orleans.

The spirit of Andrew Thomas' art works can best be described as the embodiment of vivacity and light-heartedness. His drawings of people and objects, whether executed in pastel, water color, graphite pencil or colored pencil, all convey a great sense of style tempered with fun.

His highly individualistic approach can also be seen in jewelry designs. The basic arrangements of his pins and necklaces present traditional themes to which he has added wonderful wry twists.

Even the medium he uses to create his pieces is singular and unique, so no two are ever alike. Each becomes a one-of-a-kind work of art to be worn or displayed.

Currently, he is creating wall pieces. These designs and constructions were originally inspired by his work with jewelry and have evolved naturally from it.

Thomas' themes, his use of color and execution of his original talent in the creation of his works of art contain a new and refreshing sense of beauty.

Thomas studied at the Atlanta College of Art before moving to his favorite city, New Orleans, five years ago. There he finds plenty of artistic inspiration for his work in the people, the architecture and Carnival.

His work is being exhibited at Gallery 508 in the New Orleans French Quarter in addition to Serenity.

Vo-tech classes help county to construct walking track project

BY DENA BISNETTE

Some of the students at the Hancock County Vocational-Technical Center are learning more than just a trade—they are learning community service.

Their latest project is visible to anyone who passes Hancock Medical Center on US-90. The students, using materials supplied by Hancock County, have built warm-up equipment for a walking track in front of the hospital.

Hancock County Recreation Director Hilda Bourg said she arranged the project after making a public appeal for donations of materials and labor for the walking track. Part of the assistance she received for the warm-up area was in the form of a donation from The Sea Coast Echo.

Once the students completed the construction, the equipment was assembled and installed by county workers. Preparations are now underway for the surfacing of the track itself.

"Labor is what costs us most. These kids have saved the county a lot of money," Bourg said. "I plan to use this facility for other projects because the work they've done on this one is very high quality."

She said there were a few delays in the project, but they had to do with obtaining materials rather than with the students. During those delays, the students helped with the track by cutting signs and putting base coats on them.

Three classes, including the woodworkers taking Hamilton Miley's building trades course, the welders in John Cranmer's class and the sheet metal workers in Reggie Ladner's metal trades course, participated in the project.

Bourg said she knew Miley and had asked him about getting the other instructors involved depending on the type of work needed.

Al Bourgeois, who has served as principal of the school for the past 16 years, said about 20 percent of the school's entire student body had a part in cutting, assembling, welding, painting or other work on the equipment.

"I'm delighted. These students are just so professional," Bourg commented.

Bourgeois said students have been involved in some type of community service project much of the time he has served as principal.

According to Miley, the biggest project his students ever undertook was construction of the building housing the Waveland Hospitality Center several years ago.

Due to liabilities involved, students are not allowed to leave campus for community service work and most projects are smaller than the building housing the hospitality center.

The students do not take on production-type jobs, but once they made 100 birdhouses for a Senior Citizens' fundraiser, Miley said.

Others, according to Bourgeois, have ranged from concrete benches and tables for schools to the wooden benches on the sand beach.

The school can not provide work for sale, although what a student does with his finished individual projects is up to him. In addition, work can not be done for private industry.

Anyone with a charitable or community service-type organization which needs help, however, may contact Bourgeois at 467-3568.

Such projects offer the vocational-technical students practice in a trade which they can use after graduating, the principal said.

The vocational-technical training can be very important in the students' future, said Bourgeois, who explained, "We attract kids left behind academically."

The students come mostly from Hancock North Central and Bay High, with a few from St. Stanislaus.

There are usually about 200 high school-level students enrolled, with about 15 to 20 college-level nursing and secretarial students and about 30 to 35 full-time college students taking one or more of the 11 college-level courses offered at night.

The school has also provided initial training for companies including DuPont, Borg-Warner and NASA.

There are also about 30 part-time students each term involved in part-time business and office procedure courses and about 65 taking non-credit courses like metal shop.

Also included are GED preparation courses, although the testing itself is done through a cooperative effort with other local agencies, Bourgeois said.

"There has been all the controversy, with people asking 'Is the school worth it?'" the principal said, referring to Pearl River Community College's discovery that funds for high school courses should not be provided through the junior college and the resulting meetings regarding transferring the vocational-technical programs to the local school districts.

The community college board has delayed action on that decision until January.

"It's worth it," he stated.

Missionary Sisters celebrate centennial

Special to the Echo

In honor of their centennial year of celebration, Holy Spirit Missionary Sisters at St. Rose de Lima Parish in Bay St. Louis hosted a dinner May 14 following a special Mass celebrated by Bishop Joseph Lawson Howze.

The four Sisters currently missioned at St. Rose are Sister Helen Marie Yockel, Sister Engratia Gales, Sister Dulcinea Marsz and Sister Dolores Kuhl.

They are members of the international order of Holy Spirit Missionary Sisters founded in Steyl, Holland on Dec. 8, 1889 by Blessed Arnold Janssen.

Blessed Arnold Janssen also founded two other religious orders, Society of the Divine Word (at St. Augustine's here in Bay St. Louis) and a cloistered order of Sisters of the Holy Spirit of Perpetual Adoration.

On May 11, 1901 under the leadership of Sister Leonarda Lentrup, five Sisters arrived in Northbrook, Ill. (suburb of Chicago) to establish the North American Province of the Order.

On Sept. 1, 1924 five Holy Spirit Sisters arrived in Bay St. Louis to begin their ministry at St. Rose de Lima parish.

Sister Leonardine became principal of the school. Other teachers were Sister Matutina Holle, a talented pianist and violinist who had studied at several famous European music conservatories; Sister Charitosa Klug, taking charge of the science department; Sister Ellen Marchner, English department; and Sister Basilissa Holzapfel (who died April 1989 at age 97) as housekeeper.

From these early beginnings until the present, 85 Sisters have been missioned here at St. Rose de Lima Parish. Both grade and high school have now been closed, but the Sisters' ministries continue in the parish, religious education and tutoring.

Throughout the world, there are nearly 4,000 Holy Spirit Missionary Sisters representing 25 nationalities, sharing the Gospel in 29 countries and being involved in every possible church ministry.

As diverse and distant these ministries may be, the Sisters, their families, and friends, people they minister to, and from whom they receive so much, are closely bonded to the Holy Spirit in love, devotion and commitment.

The goal of the centennial celebration is three-fold: to express gratitude for the Lord's faithfulness to the Sisters during these 100 years; to acquaint many more people with the religious community; and to invite others to share in the mission of the Holy Spirit Missionary Sisters during this second century.

Our Big Solution To Blocked Arteries Is Smaller Than You Think.

It's as small as a tiny beam of light. Yet its results are as big as life. It's the powerful laser used to perform angioplasty at the NorthShore Vascular Laser Center.

For patients with blocked leg arteries, laser angioplasty is an alternative to surgery. It's high technology that's as simple as inserting the tiny laser probe into the blocked vessel. Advancing it to the blockage. And vaporizing it. With the blockage cleared, a balloon can be inserted and inflated, and normal blood circulation is restored.

What are the benefits for patients? A shorter hospital stay, reduced risk, speedier recovery and less expense. The procedure is quick. Precise. And on the north shore, it's available at NorthShore Regional Medical Center.

For more information or a second opinion about this revolutionary procedure, see your physician or give us call at 641-6363. And ask us about laser angioplasty. It's just one of our big solutions to your healthcare needs.

Carriere Baptist Church to honor Sen. John Stennis

Retired Senator John C. Stennis has been named "Mr. Inspiration 1989" by the To Learn The Bible Television Ministry of the First Baptist Church of Carriere.

The presentation ceremony honoring Sen. Stennis is scheduled for Friday, May 19 at 7 p.m. in the church's activities building which will accommodate 2,000 persons.

Closed circuit television is being set up for overflow.

Those scheduled to take part in the ceremony include Roy S. Estess, director of John C. Stennis Space Center; Mrs. Gordon White, chairman of Mississippi and American Farm Bureau of Women; the Picayune High School Band; Flags Over Mississippi of the Mississippi National Guard; Revived Quartet; and others.

Everyone is invited to attend this ceremony and sign the register which will be given to Senator Stennis as a memento.

Sen. Stennis, overcoming a battle with cancer and the loss of a leg while carrying out all his responsibilities as United States Senator, is truly an inspiration to everyone.

Each year the To Learn The Bible Television Ministry of the First Baptist Church of Carriere names someone who is an inspiration in spite of adverse circumstances.

Those persons desiring to help name someone for 1990 are invited to call or write the pastor, the Reverend William Gary Smith, P.O. Box 256, Carriere, 39426.

Rev. Smith suggests these Bible passages as inspirational:

"It is not what we have, but what we do with what we have that counts."

"I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me."

—Philippians 4:13

"Only one life to live, it will soon be past. Only what is done for Christ will last."

Reflections On Life

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

Clean-cut, intelligent, easy-going and personable, my young friend's appearance belied any connection you might want to make between him and the subculture of the world of drugs.

Although he had been away from the church for some time, his presence and manner in church also belied what he had been into.

"I'm doing my best to get away from dope," he began as we drove toward an eat-all-you-can salad bar.

"What kind of stuff have you been doing?" I asked him.

"Marijuana, at first. Recently, I have been doing only crack. Marijuana keeps you down. It doesn't pick up your mind.

"But crack is more like speed. It quickens your mind. It makes you do more than you are capable of doing."

He hesitated, as if checking off the accuracy of his last statement. "But the high from crack only lasts about ten minutes. You have to do it often if you want to stay up there."

By now, my curiosity was thoroughly awakened, since I had never before dialogued about crack with a crack user.

"How do you take that stuff?" I asked in puzzled fashion.

"You smoke it! You use anything convenient for melting the crack down. Any old beer can or soft drink bottom or the like will do. Crack melts like wax. You can apply the fire from a cigarette lighter or a match to melt the crack. As it melts, it smokes, and you inhale the smoke."

"You inhale it?" I echoed. "How long does it burn, and do you inhale it as you would a regular cigarette?"

"It burns for maybe five minutes. Some people inhale it into their lungs, but it doesn't give you any advantage. I have tried inhaling it into my lungs, but it's just as good passing it from your mouth into your nostrils and out."

"How did you get into doing the crack to begin with?"

He looked at me as someone pretty green and ignorant of the drug scene. "A friend suggested it to me," he continued. "I had left my job, since they were months behind in paying me. I was down because I didn't have any work. So I decided to try crack, figuring it might make me feel better."

"It is a hard habit to support," he added thoughtfully, "but I managed with a bit of shoplifting here and there."

"I guess it must be expensive. How many times a day did you do the crack? Ten times, maybe?"

"Since it only lasted ten minutes, you did it as often as you could. As soon as one high was over, you started on another one. That's $10 for one piece of crack about half the size of a pea. It's $20 for a piece of crack as big as a pea."

"In no time, if you do crack often enough, you can be dealing with a daily habit of several hundred dollars. But I've been off it for a week now, and I want to get hired on with another trucking company. I'm ready to stay clean and get back to work."

My acquaintance with the young man and our conversation had started out on the down side, but his closing comments on crack put both of us on a clean, refreshing high. To say the least, I was a blessed relief to hear him come to that conclusion.

His story, no doubt, coincides with that of legions of young women and young men, while it differs considerably from that of legions of others.

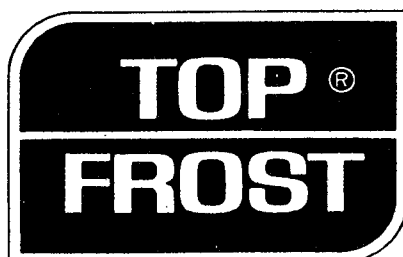

What impressed me most was that he had deep confidence in his mother who always heard him out. Through trust in his mother, he then turned to his church, to God, to Jesus.

SHOPPING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

"The corn is as high..."—how does the old song go? But, the corn, harvest-fresh and golden yellow ears—is anything but high this week at area supermarkets.

Winn-Dixie, Jitney Jungle, Delchamps and National stores are all offering corn at special prices, the ears still in tasseled husks to preserve freshness. So, hurry over to the produce counters and "harvest" those ears of corn.

And, put the water on to boil before you start husking the corn, keeping it fresh to the very last minute! Don't overcook it, slather the ears ever so liberally with butter, powder with pepper and salt, and have the napkins handy. I add a spoon or so of sugar to the water, never salt. Or, if you're having an outdoor feast, try:

GRILLED CORN

12 ears corn
1 cup water
1/2 lb. butter, melted
Turn back the husks, remove silk, and re-cover corn with the husks, tying with string. Dampen husks with water, and place on a hot grill, turning frequently until brown and steaming. Remove the string and the husks to serve. Pass the melted butter, and the pepper and salt shakers.

Another favorite way with corn is:

CORN CAKES

1 1/2 cups whole corn kernels
3 Tbsp. flour
2 Tbsp. milk
1/2 tsp. salt
1 egg, well beaten
Oil for frying
Combine the four, milk, salt and egg, and beat until smooth and thoroughly blended. Add the corn kernels, mixing well. Drop from spoon into hot shallow fat and fry until golden brown on both sides. (Four servings) From Princess Pamela's Soul Food Cookbook

There's a super special on whole fryers at Jitney Jungle, two to a bag, limit two bags, please. And, with all the fresh vegetables coming to market these days, mix it all up and cook:

SPRING

GARDEN CHICKEN
1 broiler-fryer, cut up
2 Tbsp. vegetable oil
1 cup onion, chopped
1 clove garlic, minced
1 1/4 cups chicken broth
1 tsp. salt
Dash Tabasco sauce
1/2 tsp. thyme

1 cup diced cooked ham or pork, optional
1 cup carrots, sliced
2 cups green beans, cut
3 small zucchini, sliced
3 tomatoes, peeled and diced
Cooked rice or noodles

Saute the chicken pieces in oil in a large skillet, drain and set aside. Cook onion and garlic in chicken drippings until golden. Add the broth, salt and Tabasco, thyme, diced ham and browned chicken.

Cover and simmer for 40 minutes. Add carrots and beans, cover and cook 15 minutes or until vegetables and chicken are tender. Add the zucchini and tomatoes and cook 5 minutes longer. Serve over rice or noodles. Six servings. From Use-It-Up Cookbook. (If you like a thicker sauce, reduce by simmering longer)

If you want an onion that's sweet enough to eat just as you would an apple one which won't bring tears as you peel or cut it, and won't let everyone know just what you had for lunch—then don't pass up those Vidalia onions offered at special prices at Jitney Jungle, also at Delchamps. These sweet onions, grown in Vidalia, Ga., and surrounding areas, are especially delicious, excellent not only for salads but in many dishes, giving a sweet taste to the cooked dish. Try:

SKILLET SALAD OR RELISH

5 medium-size Vidalia onions
3 or 4 bell (green) peppers
3 or 4 Tbsp. olive oil as needed
6 ripe tomatoes
1 small jar pimientos
Pepper, salt to taste
Peel onions and slice rather thinly. Cut the peppers in half, and clean out, then slice into strips.

Saute onions and peppers in the oil over moderate heat for several minutes, until they are still slightly colored. Slice tomatoes, drain pimientos and add to the onions and peppers. Salt and pepper to taste, and cook for, say, five minutes longer, or until the tomatoes are soft, but not mushy.

Six servings, delicious with chicken or with the beef cuts on sale at National and Winn-Dixie, or the pork loins on special at Delchamps.

Or, just slice the Vidalias, thickly, and pile atop steak or hamburgers, taking advantage of the specials at area stores.

Or, if you're hungry for good, fresh fish, take a look at the catfish fillets and whole catfish featured at Winn-Dixie. Our own fresh-water Mississippi cat has really come into its own in recent years, and become a gourmet item. Try:

CATFISH CREOLE

1 lb. catfish fillets
1 onion, finely chopped
1 Tbsp. minced parsley
2 toes garlic, minced
1 can tomatoes (16 ounces)
1/4 cup melted butter
Bay leaf
1 Tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
2 Tbsp. lemon juice
Dashes of Tabasco, pepper
salt to your taste
Lemon slices

In two tablespoons of the butter, saute the onion, celery, parsley and garlic until soft, then stir in the tomatoes, mushrooms, bay leaf, Tabasco and three or four thin lemon slices.

Bring almost to a boil, then simmer for 15 minutes or so, or until slightly thickened, stirring from time to time. Cut the fillets into pieces two or three inches long, slicing crosswise, then combine with lemon juice, the remaining butter, and Worcestershire, and add to the sauce, stir and salt and pepper to taste.

Continue cooking, over low heat for 10 minutes, or until fish flakes to the touch of a fork. Serve with rice. Six servings.

Grabowski, Ahlswede host open house at textile studio

Kerr Grabowski, designer of colorful textiles, and Gin Ahlswede, weaver, will host an open house Saturday, May 14 from 2 to 5 p.m. at their studios, 206 East Second Street in Pass Christian.

Grabowski is widely noted for her cotton batik wearables and her brilliantly hued hand-painted silks—kimonos, skirts, shirts and scarfs.

She has just returned from Washington D.C. where she was one of 100 artists chosen from more than 1,000 applicants to exhibit at the Smithsonian Institution.

After a lifetime career in the field of journalism, Ahlswede is a relative newcomer to weaving and has acquired a reputation for colorfully styled "cover ups"—ruanas, shawls and throws.
